Final Minutes

Education Program – Tour of the new Health Sciences Library
8:15 a.m. to 9:00 a.m.

- Lisa Traditi MLS, AHIP, and Head of Education at the Health Sciences Library conducted a tour of the new facility
- The new library
 - Is 113,000 square feet (twice the space of Denison)
 - Is themed after a mountain meadow in bloom (with a heavy influence of columbine in the architecture and color)
 - Includes an event space and art gallery
 - Has 31 enclosed study areas including “isolation booths” for cell phone users
 - Has 2 teaching labs
 - Contains 49 student computers (all with ergonomic, adjustable chairs)
 - Includes several video conferencing rooms
 - Includes several alcoves with white boards (marker and eraser packs check out)
 - Has a Special Collections room that houses 1st edition Darwin and Nightingale, the Amesse collection (leisure reading collection), Arts in Medicine Collection, Strauss Complementary and Indigenous Medicine collection, and the Waring History of Medicine & Health Sciences collection
 - An exercise room and bathroom with shower for the staff
 - Is a narrow, armed building because natural light reaches 90 feet into a building, and they wanted patrons and staff to have natural light
 - Now only receives 24 print journals, only half of which are bound; 20,000 full text online journals
 - Combined all services desks into one; in part to free up reference librarians to go out to where their faculty are on the Anschutz Campus (reference librarians no longer staff the desk at all, but are available through Ask A Librarian – chat, email, and phone – as well as through referral services)

Program – Teaching Immunology in Rwanda: Is There a Better Way? What to do about Your PowerPoint Show when There's No Electricity Today

9:30 a.m. to 10:30 a.m.

- J. John Cohen, M.D., Ph.D., Professor of Immunology and Medicine at the University of Colorado Denver was the speaker
- Dr. Cohen advertised Café Scientifique - <http://cafescicolorado.org/>
- In March of 2007 Dr. Cohen traveled to Rwanda to teach immunology in Butare where the Rwandan medical school is; he flew into Kigali, where the airport and major hospital (Centre Hospitaliere Universitaire Kigali) are and then traveled 135 miles to south Kigali
- Rwanda is the size of Vermont and about 9 million in population; mean annual per capita income is USD 260, which is enough to buy food, but not do anything else, like pay for housing or clothes; Rwanda has about 600,000 orphans; because it was a country under the Belgium empire, it is a French-speaking country; however, President Paul Kagame has changed the national language to English
- Genocidaires are people who were involved in the genocide; over 800,000 people have been accused of being genocidaires (which is about the number of individuals that died in the genocide); many of the guilty are sentenced to community service and can be identified by the pink robes they wear
- Dr. Cohen stayed at the Hotel des Mille Collines (“Hotel Rwanda”)
- The hospital does not have nurses except in intensive care; patients are expected to have family that come along and do the nursing; which is actually a system that works fairly well
- Dr. Cohen dealt with several obstacles in teaching in Rwanda that he is interested in gathering ideas and opinions concerning:
 - Attendance/Organization – attendance was informal, and often the professors did not release their students to attend lecture or even know about the class to send their students to
 - Language – the official language is English, but more people know French, but even more people Swahili, and even more people know a local Rwandan language; so Dr. Cohen had great difficulty in communicating with his classes, even though he is somewhat bilingual (English-French) as he was raised in Montreal
 - Electricity & Computer Equipment – the electricity is very iffy; instructors need to be prepared to NOT use computers to teach; there is no wireless
 - Classroom – most of the time no one could find a key to let the class into the classroom
 - Expectations & Levels
 - Efficiency, scale, durability, flexibility – What’s better?

Keep an eye out for good speakers, as the planning committee for Colleague Connection is interested in your ideas.
- It is CCML's turn to organize the planning committee for Colleague Connection for 2009, and Addie will be glad to hear from any volunteers to act as coordinator. The coordinator calls the body together and delegates duties and overall organizes meetings of the group. Both Addie and Lynne Fox have both served on this committee and regard it as very little work for a great reward; much of the work is actually done by DU students. It is a great way to meet other people from libraries and organizations around Colorado.

- Lynne commended Elaine for the tremendous amount of work she did to make medical librarians and libraries part of the 9 Health Fair.

New Business

- Possible Partnership with Japan
 - Lilian is leaving tomorrow for Japan; she will be meeting with medical librarians while she is there. Lilian will be presenting to members of Tokyo area chapter of the medical librarians association.
 - Lilian is asking that the CCML membership think about creating a possible partnership or formal relationship with Japan's medical librarians association.
 - Lisa Traditi mentioned that MLA has already formed some of these formal international relationships, so MLA could serve as a model.
 - Lynne Fox mentioned the possibility of video or teleconferencing and putting together some formal meetings.
 - Overall, the membership supported the idea.
